THE BEGINNING

“Every day you should do something that scares you... It reminds you you're still alive!” AJ Hackett

Modern Day Bungee Jumping was born through the vision of two young Kiwis AJ Hackett and Chris Siggilekow.

Inspired by the concept of the Naghol vine divers of the island of Vanuatu, AJ Hackett tested his courage by first leaping off the Greenhithe Bridge (19m) in 1986 attached to Rubber strands.

After much testing and refining of the mechanics of Bungee jumping, AJ Launched Bungee to the world by first leaping of the Eiffel Tower in 1987 and then teaming up with good friend Henry van Asch, opening the first commercial Bungee site in the world in New Zealand in 1988. AJ and Henry then followed by opening the first International Bungee site in Cairns 1990.

Now 20 years on, AJ Hackett group of companies operate in 5 different countries around the world, celebrating the culture of Bungee and offering extreme personal challenges like no other.

MINJIN SWING

Legend has it that the Minjin used to roam these hill-slopes in the lean body of a mountain devil, a vicious cat-like creature...

Today it roams in the shape of the Jungle Swing at speeds of up to 120 kph in 3.5 seconds. Stainless steel cables have taken the place of animal cunning, the spotted hide has made way for hang-gliding harnesses and the evil eyes are now brightly coloured lights... gravity provides the charge, which is wild and very real!

One, two or three people at a time can face the challenge of the Minjin - and legend further has it... that anyone who enjoys the experience of the Minjin will live a charmed life.

The evil karma of the Minjin has gone forever, but the good fortune of its symbol will remain.

MINJIN SWING

THE WORLD'S FASTEST JUNGLE SWING

In true AJ form, we are continually trying to push the limits of Gravity and in the year 2000 AJ Hackett created the Minjin Swing as a way for one, two or three people to experience extreme speed and acceleration together.

The Minjin is a multi-person Jungle Swing where you fall from 45 metres in height down to just 1 metre in 3.5 seconds reaching speeds of up to 120km/h. But don't think this is a show ground ride – you have the control. At the top while laying horizontally you need to pull the self release to start your Swing! Feeling the presence of the rainforest around you as you fly, don't close your eyes at the bottom because we are taking an action photo!
